

Global Squeeze?

We run courses in ethical economics.

History shows that whenever people work together, they can create great wealth. The unasked question is: can this work for everyone?

For you to get rich do I have to suffer? For me to get rich do you have to suffer? If we both want to prosper can we do it without impoverishing someone else?

This is one of the great challenges of our time. To rise to this, the idea of justice needs to be at the heart of economic thinking. Sign up to one of our ten week courses, from as little as £30, and join the discussion. We also offer classes in practical philosophy.

www.economicswithjustice.org

Why Economics with Justice?

War, climate change, rising prices and inequality are today's headlines. Are these inevitable, or can we start working for a rather different world, one where we can enjoy a more natural life together, where we can all find prosperity and freedom?

This may seem too remote a possibility, but it need not be if we apply ourselves. But just how should we do that? This vital and challenging question is at the heart of our courses. So many of today's ills spring from the prevailing concept of economics being independent of fairness and morality.

These courses address economics as a human subject, the study of relationships between individuals, institutions and communities; based on human values. Hence the importance of what we value, what ethical standing we hold. Each session features a topic presentation designed to encourage discussion and reflection. Come and join us in this fascinating exploration.

The 10 week course is available online or in-person. It explores the following topic areas:

- 1 - What is Economics with Justice?
- 2 - The Nature of society
- 3 - Wealth, Not Stealing
- 4 - Mother Earth
- 5 - Work, Our Contribution
- 6 - Trade, Do as you would be done by
- 7 - Credit and Money
- 8 - Responsible Banking
- 9 - Taxation
- 10 - Reflections

'I have learnt so much that I didn't know about the society I live in.'

"I loved the friendly, easy going presentation by the very knowledgeable tutor."

Each course is presented at various times of the week. Online classes run for 75-90 minutes at hours to suit most time zones.

In-person classes at our central London location, are two sessions of an hour with an intervening 30 minute refreshment break.

The course starts three times a year, around the end of January, April and September.

For latest course start dates and fees go to economicswithjustice.org or call 020 7034 4000

Central London location and enquiries:
11 Mandeville Place, London W1 U 3AJ
Phone: 020 7034 4000 e-mail:
secretary@fses.org

Nearest tube: Bond Street,
Central and Jubilee lines

Enrolments for Central London:
Online at economicswithjustice.org,
or by phone with a credit/debit card on 020 7034 4000 or on the first evening of term by cash, cheque or credit/debit card

We also offer classes in practical philosophy...